

Young people trapped in low status

Mechanisms and ways out

16 May 2023
10:00 - 12:00 CEST
Online

This online workshop will present the results of extensive qualitative work with young people (aged 15-29) in four different European cities - Amadora in Portugal, Chemnitz in Germany, Corby in the UK, and Pécs in Hungary. We will discuss findings about how and what intersectional factors contribute to young people being trapped in a low socio-economic status, as well as about the ways out that can be identified.

Our comparative effort also resulted in several recommendations towards policy reforms, which will also be presented.

Register HERE

Presentation of the results of interviews with young people and experts

The seminar is intended for:

- Social workers, youth workers, and policy-makers
- Researchers and academics investigating youth poverty, marginalization, education, housing and other youth issues
- Young people participating in support programs
- Anyone interested in inequalities among young people in urban areas

Do you want to join?

Register here. After registration, you will receive the link to join the online meeting via email.

Questions?

Send an email to katona@mri.hu
More information about the UPLIFT project here.